GIANTS HUMBLE OLD FOE

Chicago Cubs Lose Their Sting in Errorful Struggle.

WILTSE PROVES A PUZZLE

Holds Chance and His Men to Four Hits, and Only One Run Results.

Beaten as they have rarely been beaten hefore by the New York Glants, the Chicage Cubs walked off the field at the hilltop yesterday afternoon with the short end of a score that read 11 to 1. It was their fifth straight defeat. Worse than the loss of the game itself was the way McGraw's men showed up the pennant winners of a year ago. Weak on the offence, making only four scattered hits, they presented hadly demoralized front in the field, Kling, Schulte and Tinker being so badly affected that the old machine took on hardly a emblance of its former self. All the ginger and dash were gone and seven errors loomed large. Before the and of the game most of the veterans retired, and while the outfield mained intact. Sater, Zimmerman, Shean, Doyle, Toney and Needham made up the rest of the team. The Cubs gave up without making half a fight.

Two more inveterate enemies appeared on the mount in George Wiltse and Jack Pfister. Time was when the latter could give the New York twirler a pretty battle, but that day seems to be passed. He retired from the game with one out in the third inning after the Giants had made six hits count for six runs. Toney, a young reerult, succeeded him, and while the young ster had lots of speed at the start he soon slowed up and failed to stem the tide of defeat eight hits being made off his delivery Wiltse was never in better form, and the Chibs were helpless before his fast breaking shoots. In five innings they retired in order, and George could have made it six had Superbas Get the Three, but St. his own error not given Tinker a life in the seventh. A couple of singles were bunched on Wiltse in the fourth, but the runners languished on the bases. Hofman, howonly other time that Chicago got to first was in the third inning, when Zimmerman bringing both Doyle and Snodgrass home, while Bridwell singled, scoring Murray.

With Merkle on second and Al on third, a double steal was made. Kling lost his head and threw high to catch Bridwell instead of nipping Merkle at third. Tinker muffed the ball and Fred scored. Bridwell being cafe on second. Chance decided that this stead of necessary would be about all for Pflester, and Tonay was summoned to the mound. Devilm was summoned to the mound. Rye Straw Fultz withdrew Rothwell from the box and sent in Murray Lee.

With the advent of Lee Columbia began to play real ball. The pitcher was the main factor in the work of the Blue and line-up fell upon Mullins's curves for at least over for the Eutaw Purse, sixth on the White team for the rest of the game. The first man to face Lee got a scratch hit, as little time for warming up had been available, but not another New York University batter managed to repeat the trick in the four and one-half lunings that followed. In addition to allowing only one hit, Les further distinguished himself by clouting the ball safely three times, driving in four runs and tallying twice himself, on one occasion stealing home after purloining third a moment before. He struck out four men and issued only one base on balls. The result of the game was never doubt after Lee entered the box. Menkennick and Molloy put both runners out in
